Senior Citizens Of Cordelia Street To Meet

The crowd was small when the Senior Citizens of Cordelia Street met on August 1 at the center on Factory Street. Various reasons were given for many of the absences, visiting, or waiting for checks. There was a lot of visiting and catching up on the news about Ms. Bolings husband. We were glad to hear he is better. If you are interested in a group meeting of those affected by the flood last year to just talk or if you or someone you know need this service, call 897-2667. We are hoping to have a group which may alleviate some of the aggravations and tensions which still affect the people of Elba.

Elba High School Sends Students To Conference

On July 25, 26, and 27 Elba High School was represented at the Kids Saving Kids Conference sponsored by the Alabama State Dept. of Education and the Office of the Attorney General. The Elba High chapter of S.A.D.D. (Students Against Drunk Driving) sent Mary Margaret Jacobs, Sasha Kidd, Griffin Shirley, Leray Smedley, and Sponsor David Stokes were chosen for their leadership skills and ability to serve as positive role models in their school.

The purpose of the Conference was to provide training that would enhance leadership and peer helping skills. The students also received experiences that will help in organizing drug abuse prevention activities at Elba High.

The Conference was a fun time as well as a learning time. Skits, games, a "sock hop" and team building activities loosened everyone up for the jam-packed content sessions. There were 280 students attending from over 70 schools around the state. The keynote speaker was Mrs. Jo Lynn Johnson, a nationally recognized leader in the development of student to student helping relationships.

This is an annual conference and the local chapter of S.A.D.D. looks forward to sending another delegation next year.

COMMISSION MEETING ENDS ON POSITIVE NOTE

Adams quizzes county commission about recovered funds

by Marvin McLWain
 Editor

In Monday morning's Coffee County Commission meeting, Commission Chairman Billy Egerton told Adams that they, the commission, would be glad to answer any question that the citizens of the county may have about the revenues. All they have to do is come by the commission office.

"We know you're here just strictly to harass us - to beat us down," said Egerton. "We know all that stuff."

Adams was told that the check written to the county in 1988 was for approximately $20,000 and you can not find it until it's called to your attention and then you find one and still haven't found the other.

Dwight Adams, a member of a group of people calling themselves the Taxpayers Defense Committee, quizzed the commissioners concerning the $57,054.00 recently recovered by the commission office.

His question was why the funds had not been discovered sooner than they were.

HEATED DEBATE... The discussion between Dwight Adams and some of the commissioners in Monday's meeting at times took on the characteristics of a heated debate. There seem to be some question as to the real reason Mr. Adams was in attendance at the commission meeting.

In March '90, Mark Pool, county engineer, was named in the resolution which will have to be met in order to be instructed as to the requirements of the EMA director for an interim period until a permanent director could be hired. This was done so that the county could participate in the federal flood insurance program.

Also, the commissioners were asked for their assistance in implementing a permit program relative to the building of new structures in the unincorporated portions of the county.

This is being done to prevent the construction of buildings within a flood plain, thus allowing the owner to obtain flood insurance.

Also, if the structure is to be built in a flood prone area, the owner will be instructed as to the requirements of the EMA director for an interim period until a permanent director could be hired. This was done so that the county could participate in the federal flood insurance program.

BRAINSTORMS

Football time is already here again. This means most all the country goes batty, getting mad with friends and family over opinions of which football team (pronounced s-c-h-o-o-l) is the best. It hardly seems possible for it to be that time of year again. The college ball players will have the same feeling with the new rules allowing them only 20 hours a week involved with their chosen sport... which includes game time. Coaches are howling but college presidents are trying to figure out some way to insure these young men and women involved in college sports can still get an education in something besides Basketball Weaving 101.

Supporters, civil libertarians and some newspaper editorial writers question why police would do such a bad thing as arrest the children's TV hero Pee-Wee Herman. They imply the officers in Sarasota, FL should be getting the bad guys and leaving such "harmless" folks as sex perverts alone. We don't agree with the critics. Our opinion is that they can prevent a bunch of violent crimes by taking out the hang-out such as Herman was arrested. If they get those doing weird things in those X rated movie houses, it may be before they find some innocent citizen to hurt.

While we are discussing the bleeding hearts, let's cry a bit for all those adults who blame their problems on coming from broken homes, etc. A case to point is one Dave Thomas, who never knew his parents and was living along at age 12. He worked hard to survive and didn't know when to stop. He makes his own commercials and is now worth $500 million. We know him as the founder and chief executive of Wendy's, the hamburger chain named after one of his own well cared for children.

Maybe Americans soldiers will not have to go back into Iraq. Apparently the U.N. inspectors are getting some more cooperation in their search for Iraqi nuclear bomb building factories. Of late they have discovered some facts that embarras our intelligent network. That doesn't bother us a bit as long as we can keep American soldiers out of a shooting war.

The Pan Am games in Cuba commanded a lot of press coverage last week. However there was a local group who held annual eliminations with a champion also. This year some Elba ladies went to the beach and participated in a Bridge tournament. The players have expressed their congratulations to "Sister" upon being crowned Bridge Queen of the Elba bunch.

Governor Hunt has stirred up some legislators with his line-item veto of the education budget and out-right veto of the General Fund budget. We doubt the line-item action will hold, but Hunt can tell those upset with the projected proration of funds that he knew it and tried to make some corrections... political win for Hunt. The general fund will be reshaped in a special session of the legislature and it is anyone's guess on the outcome. Both sides are already politicians. Hunt has sent out his forces to "the branch heads" and the legislators are quietly working with each other for a solid front. Of course they occasionally look up and take a crack at the Republican Governor who messes up everything.

The feds have dropped the interest rates. They did this by pumping more money into the system. It is all on paper, but then our whole monetary system is a paper system. Apparently the feds feared the economy was going to slump again after a bit of recovery from the recession. This means that if you have money in CD's at the bank can expect lower interest income when you renew your certificate. The good side of the action is that those of us who must borrow can also expect slightly lower interest charges on our loan... when we can find someone willing to part with a loan.

Council members Bill Brunson and John W. Sharpless were appointed as a committee to make recommendations back to the full council at the next council meeting in two weeks.

Moore also presented each council member with a copy of a letter from the insurance company furnishing the workman's comp insurance. The letter requested the City select a one doctor to treat all the non-emergency on-the-job injury cases. The council will discuss the matter at the next council meeting.

The council approved action to modify the 1988 storm drain project. Work that was to be done near the old middle school will be canceled and the money spent in the Mulberry Heights area. With the moving of the schools, the need for clearing up that swampy area no longer existed and state officials expressed reservations on the needs in that area all along.

In other business the council approved an ordinance to complete the previously approved sale of a small piece of property for an expansion at Kleiner's; Changes in the Rental Rehab program to allow some work outside the levee; and payment of bills totaling $9,882.44.

Police Chief Freddie Hanchey reported on the activities of the police department during the past three weeks. He noted there were 245 complaints answered, including nine traffic accidents. There were 44 traffic citations issued including three for DUI.

3 men arrested for robbery of county store

by Ferrin Cox Publisher

Sheriff Brice Paul said late Tuesday that his department has arrested three Coffee County residents and charged them with breaking into Shirley Thomas store at the intersection of Highway 125 and 167 in North Coffee County Monday night. Taken in the robbery was three cartons of cigarettes and some chewing tobacco.

Danell Lee Prather, age 24, of 607 E. Park Ave., Enterprise; Robin Lee Hargrove, age 25, Lot 74 Martin Trailer Court, Enterprise and James M. Long Jr., age 19, County Road 40 (South of Victoria) were arrested. Each one was charged with Burglary in the 3rd degree and Theft in the 2nd degree. Judge Tom Head set bond on each man at $25,000.

The robbery was discovered while in progress about 1 a.m. when someone who lives in the neighborhood heard breaking glass and notified Deputy Sheriff Rex Killingsworth who lives about 200 yards from the store. Killingsworth operated the store and service station himself before assuming his present position with the sheriff's department.

Killingsworth, with the help of his two sons and a nephew was able to obtain a tag number of the small red car seen leaving the scene. On a hunch, they were quietly waiting and caught one of the suspects two hours later as he came walking out of the woods nearby.

Tuesday the other two suspects were arrested and placed in the Coffee County jail.

Hargrove had been out of jail on bail since July 18 and was awaiting trial on 11 counts of auto burglary.

Faith For Tough Times

It is easy to have faith when things are going well and all our problems are small. But what happens when those problems become large and numerous? Everyone who has lived even a few years upon this earth discovers that life is not always fair and that things don't always work out as we hoped they would.

It is in those dark moments, those tough times, that we rely on the wisdom and goodness of God knowing that He will give us strength to face the most difficult of circumstances.

In the English church of Leicestershire there is a memorial tablet with this inscription on it: "In the year of 1653, when all things throughout the nation were either demolished or profaned, Sir Robert Shirley, Baronet, founded this church, whose singular praise it is to have done the best things in the worst times, and hoped them in the most calamitous times."

It was a dark day for England, but in this darkness, Sir Robert Shirley decided to do something constructive. He built a church.

What this says to us is that even in tough times he had faith and acted upon it.

Faith does not blind us to reality, but a faith for tough times is a faith that is alive with optimism even in the face of realism. A faith for tough times is a faith that is filled with hope. While all may not be right with the world, God is still on His throne and He cares for you.

Jesus did not promise His disciples that following Him would be easy, but He did give them the assurance that He would be with them. That is our promise too. Even in tough times we are reminded of the parting words of our Lord, "Lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world."

What this says to us is that even in tough times he had faith and acted upon it.

Does Salt Shield Bacteria During Microwaving?

Charlotte Martin

Assistant County Agent

One long standing concern with microwave ovens has always been uneven cooking. Recent studies show salt might be a contributing factor.

Researchers at the University of Leeds, England, tested samples of mashed potatoes with varying levels of added salt. When microwaved (microwaved is the new term) those with the most salt did not get hot in the middle. This inadequate heating could allow harmful bacteria to survive (in perishable and high protein foods) and cause food poisoning.

Researchers theorize that salt may cause some electrical activity on the surface of the food and thereby prevent microwaves from heating the interior of that food.

Will this present problems with food that is high in salt? Will it be unsafe to heat or reheat these foods in the microwave? No one knows for sure but researchers at Pennsylvania State University are studying these questions.

Until the data is in, consumers should follow these microwave cooking practices:

1. Use a meat thermometer or temperature probe to check meat, poultry and casseroles for doneness. Check the temperature in several spots.
2. Cover foods when cooking in the microwave.
3. Cover foods when cooking in the microwave. Steam is essential for safe and thorough microwaving.

of meat and poultry products. Use a lid or heavy plastic wrap turned back at one corner. The National Livestock and Meat Board says wrap should not touch the food during cooking.

3. Observe standing times given in the recipe to ensure that food is properly and thoroughly cooked.

By the time you notice heavy leafminer tunneling, it may be too late to prevent damage to those leaves. Proper fertilization and irrigation may stimulate enough regrowth to prevent serious yield loss. To protect new growth or subsequent plantings in areas where leafminers have already caused heavy damage, spray with Diazinon or Cygon.

WEEDS

Don't let your garden become a weed manufacturing plant. Weeds have the ability to produce seeds in tremendous amounts. For example, one redroot pigweed will produce 117,400 seeds.

Some weed seeds have the ability to survive for a long time. Ragweed, pigweed, curly dock, and other weeds have been known to germinate after being buried in the soil for 38 years. So this is another reason why we don't want to let weeds reproduce seed in our garden. It will come back to haunt us for many years. Mow, disk, or spray with chemicals, but clean up your garden after vegetables are harvested so that it won't produce weed seed for next years.

Shown standing with the Champion show pig from the recent Coffee County 4-H and FFA Hog Show are Joe and Shanna Ballard of Kinston. Standing with Joe and Shanna is Danny Hopper, agriscience instructor at Abbeville High School and the judge for this year's show. Joe and Shanna are the son and daughter of Wayne and Jan Ballard of the Damascus Community.

Seven Reasons Why Pecan Trees Don't Produce

Dan Presley

Coffee County Coordinator

Coffee County has hundreds of mature pecan trees around homes. Production on these trees is often sparse and erratic. Usually, there is no simple reason why a pecan tree fails to produce a crop or produces poor quality nuts. The following are some of the more common problems and some suggestions for correcting them.

1. Poor variety. Pecan cultivars (varieties) vary quite a bit in production capacity, nut quality and susceptibility to disease and other problems. For example, a variety like Schley, a widely planted paper-shell, will rarely produce a good crop when trees are unsprayed, because the trees are extremely susceptible to pecan scab. In contrast, varieties like Sumner, Elliott, Jackson, or Melrose, which are currently recommended for home planting, are quite resistant to the disease and are usually not seriously damaged.

2. Poor soil. Pecan trees grow best on sandy loam soils with well-drained soil. Growth and production is usually poor on heavy clays or on poorly drained soils, and on deep sands, unless and intensive irrigation and fertilization program is maintained.

3. Inadequate lime or fertilizer. Lack of lime, nitrogen, fertilizer and zinc are common limiting factors in pecan production in Coffee County. Only trees with adequate supplies of each of these will consistently bear good crops. A soil test is absolutely necessary to determine the amount of lime needed and is helpful in determining amounts of fertilizers. In general, a good guess recommendation for fertilizing pecan trees would be to apply five pounds of 10-10-10 for each year of age of the tree, up to a maximum of 100 pounds per tree for very large trees. Apply this fertilizer, plus two to three pounds of 36 percent zinc sulfate, in February each year in a wide circle underneath each tree.

4. Too much or too little water. Waterlogged soils where water stands do not provide aeration for roots. Also, lack of water, especially during dry periods in summer, frequently results in reduced yields and quality, and in weakened trees which may be less productive in following years. Choose well-drained soil, provide irrigation for excess water and keep trees watered during dry periods.

5. Poor pollination. A single, isolated tree usually won't be effectively pollinated, since most varieties shed pollen either too early or too late to pollinate the female flowers of the same tree. After a shedding pollen early (Type I) such as Cape Fear should be planted within 100 yards of a tree shedding pollen late (Type II, such as Stuart). If a number of seedling pecan trees or trees of several different varieties are already growing within a few hundred yards, then a tree for pollination is probably not necessary. Another reason for poor pollination is wet weather during April and May. Rain washes pollen away and may restrict movement of pollen by wind.

6. Overcrowding. Pecan trees must have good exposure to sunlight to produce good crops. When limbs begin to overlap limbs of neighboring trees, remove the least desirable trees to prevent overcrowding.

7. Disease and insect pests. Pecan scab, a fungus disease, seriously limits production on unsprayed pecan varieties such as Schley. Even varieties such as Stuart, Farley and Desirable, which were previously resistant to scab, are now being affected. Several other diseases can cause early leaf drop and decreased production. Elliott, Sumner, and Melrose are currently recommended varieties with good disease resistance.

Aphids have been a severe problem early this year. I have seen many pecan trees dropping leaves already because of yellow aphid damage. When the pecan tree drops leaves early, it tends to put out new growth and this is an indication there will be very little, if any, production next year. If your pecan trees have a black mold on them, this is a pretty good indication that you have had aphids earlier in the year.

Pecan weevils, hickory shuckworms and several other insects can limit pecan production. Removing and destroying fallen leaves, shucks, nuts and twigs are sanitary measures which aid in control of many insects and diseases.

Spraying may not be good for growers with only a few trees, but spray recommendations for control.

Adult Education Classes Offered Through ESJC

Four Adult Basic Education classes are offered through Enterprise State Junior College this fall. One class is scheduled at main campus from 6 to 9 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday evenings and one from 6 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. A class is also scheduled at the Fort Rucker campus and at the high school in Elba. Students will learn skills in reading, English and math to prepare for the GED test of high school equivalency. No fee is charged for the classes which begin September 9 and 10. Call 393-ESJC, 598-3438, or 1-800-874-3399 for more information.

The Heifer And Steer Show Is On It's Way

Stan Whelan

Associate County Agent

Each year around the 16th and 17th of August, Coffee County hosts one of the largest livestock shows in the Tri-States Area. This particular show deals with beef cattle heifers and steers. The show is held each year at the Farm Center Complex in New Brockton, and it starts on Friday with weigh-in from noon to 6:00 and showmanship that evening at 7:00 and the exhibiting of the animals the following day on Saturday.

One of the very nice things about this show is that all of the money raised (over $4,000) comes from right here in Coffee County. We will provide a list of individuals and businesses for the newspaper in the very near future showing all of the wonderful support that these youth events receive here in the county. Two very nice prizes of the show are the Coffee County Cattlemen's Association and the Coffee County Farmers Federation which is associated with Alfa Insurance.

Young people from all over the Tri-States area of Florida, Alabama and Georgia will be participating. We even have a few people out of Mississippi who drive all the way to New Brockton to participate in this very worthwhile event.

It is a super atmosphere and a super time for your family and children to see something that is as old as time itself, and that is stock shows. If you would like to come out and watch, it is open to the public and free of charge. Come out and enjoy the show, walk around the barn, look at the animals and enjoy the two days with us. We will be glad to have you.

Belchers visit family

Warren and Dora Belcher of Biloxi, MS were guests of Grover and Eria Belcher, Ernestine B. Kelley and Evelyn Belcher Gullett and other relatives and friends in Elba for the weekend.

White Mold

White mold is the other pest that may cause serious problems this year due to the weather. Larger areas of white mold are being reported. Treatments of Terracot or Terracot plus Mopac can be applied in a narrow band (4 inches) at 50 pounds per acre. Insecticides (Lorsban, Dylo-nate) that suppress white mold should be applied with a 4 to 6 inch band over the row at labeled rates.

Leafhoppers

I have also seen a good bit of leafhopper injury this year. Hopper burn should be controlled when more than one-third of the foliage in a field is yellowed. Sevin or Orthene insecticides will work well for controlling the leafhoppers that cause this leaf damage.

Foliage-feeding insects

We are also seeing a great deal of damage caused by foliage-feeding insects. The majority of the worms I am seeing are the fall armyworm, corn earworm, loopers, and the velvet bean caterpillar. A good many growers have already had to spray, especially where they have previously put out Lorsban. However, there are a good many insects in other fields. I would encourage growers to be on alert. It is extremely important to identify which insect you are spraying for as a few of these worms are very easy to kill. It will give you quite a savings to your pocketbook if you know which worm you are spraying.

CROPS FIELD DAY

A crops field day will be held at Headland at the Auburn University Experiment Station on August 27. I will be sending out further information on this meeting.

Round & About With Eria 897-2006

We looked for peace, but no good came; and for a time of health, and behold trouble!

The snoring of his horses was heard from Dan: the whole land trembled at the sound of his neighing of his strong ones; for they are come, and have devoured the land, and those that dwell therein.

For behold, I will send serpents, cockatrices, among you, which will not be charmed, and they shall bite you, saith the Lord. When I would comfort myself against sorrow, my heart is faint in me.

The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved. For the fruit of the daughter of my people am I hurt: I am black; astonishment hath taken hold on me.

Views From The Pressbox

By Ricky Mularz

The Mularz team went on an extended road trip last week that covered almost 3,000 miles and passed through 12 states. The purpose of the trip was to visit my 99-year-old grandmother in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and to let my wife and kids meet my kinfolk up north. We were successful on both counts and even though we were tired when we got home, it was a lot of fun and everybody got to see places they may never get to see again.

The high school football season really started Monday for the players across the state as August 12th was the opening day of official preseason football practice. The rules gave the players three days in shorts to get ready for the headknocking and I'm sure that both the coaches and players needed the three day period to get ready for the long practices and season to follow. Get ready folks...football season is here!

I read an article in USA TODAY during my vacation entitled "Violence vs. officials - a scary thing," and since I have been an official in several sports for a number of years I read the article and have to admit that I really wasn't surprised. In the article there were reports of an umpire being shot at with a .38 caliber revolver, a hockey ref who had an ice skate thrown at his head and a softball ump who was attacked by two players with bats.

Six states have adopted laws that attach a fine or jail term for umpire offenses against umpires and the USSSA (a softball organization) has created a safety committee to review all offenses.

The Amateur Softball Association, a nationwide organization popular in the south, reported that from 1983 to 1989 registered umpires in ASA dropped by almost 6,000, due mainly to umpires abuse.

I have umpired long enough to know that verbal abuse is to be expected; however, I too have been aware of the increase of possible physical violence involving umpires, even at the local level. I know that umpires aren't perfect and make mistakes, but the next time you yell "kill the ump," think about it and how you'd feel if you were in the umpires shoes.

The Elba Athletic Club is getting geared up for the 1991 school year and needs everyone's help if the club is to remain an important part of the Elba High athletic program. The Athletic Club exists for one reason and one reason only - to provide support to the entire athletic program at Elba High School.

The Athletic Club provides financial support to all junior and senior high sports, and cheerleaders, and must conduct fund-raising events to raise the money needed to keep Elba's sports programs at the top. You don't have to pay $50 and join the Black and Gold club to be a member. Membership dues are only $20 per family or individual and the more members the club has, the better the club will be able to help. Think about and join today!

The high school football season is three weeks away and we at the CLIPPER will once again try to bring you the very best coverage of the area football teams. While we do know basically what is happening, and where, we don't know it all and need your help. If you know of an interesting story concerning high school football or cheerleading, let us know. We'd like to feature someone or something that would be of interest to our readers.

Elba Tigers ranked 7th in 3A poll

The Alabama Sportswriters Association released its pre-season high school football rankings this week and all six champions in 1991 were picked to repeat in 1992.

In Class 6A, Jess Lanier (12-3) finally made it to the top of the hill in '90 and is expected to have another powerhouse. The Purple Tigers closed out the season with eight straight wins, outscoring their opponents 161-28 during the run, and have to be the team to beat in the high school ranks.

Youth football leagues forming

The Elba Department of Parks and Recreation will again sponsor three teams in the Tri-County Youth Football League for the 1991 season. Registration was held last week; however, any boys ages 6-8, 9-10 or 11-12 that wish to play may still do so, by calling the Recreation office at 897-6833.

The deadline to join a team will be Tuesday, August 20.

City pools to remain open on weekends

The Elba Department of Parks and Recreation has announced that both city pools will be open on weekends only beginning on Saturday and Sunday, August 17-18.

Both pools will be open on weekends through Labor Day and will be open for the last day of the season on Labor Day, September 2.

However, New Brockton is expected to bounce back this season and should be able to handle most of the 2A's on the slate.

The Kinston Bulldogs moved up to the 2A ranks last year and stumbled to an 0-10 record, and in '91 have a schedule that includes seven 2A and three 1A teams.

The 2A squads include Straughton, Wicksburg, Florala, Samson, Red Level, New Brockton and Brantley, while the 1A teams on the slate will be Coffee Springs, Houston Academy and Zion Chapel.

The Bulldogs' schedule doesn't appear to be that hard, and the 1A teams should be the year's Kinston stars the trip back toward being a winning football team.

The Zion Chapel Rebels posted a 6-5 record and advanced to the state playoffs a year ago, but has a tough schedule that includes four 2A squads, and looks like a challenge.

The 2A teams that do the Rebels schedule include Samson, Brantley, Wicksburg and Kinston, all of which have solid programs, while the 1A teams on the slate include Arton, Houston Academy, McKenzie, Coffee Springs and Dozier.

The 1A teams on the slate are all good football schools, especially Arton and McKenzie, both of which are ranked in the Top 10 in the state. So, the Rebels will have to be ready to better last year's record.

Any one wishing to place an ad in the 1991 Elba Tiger football program that has not been contacted should contact the Elba Athletic Club at 897-2266 as soon as possible.

The above referenced foreclosure sale is hereby continued to August 29, 1991.

Can you imagine a big league player leading the league in making most errors; in being struck out the most times; and in hitting the most double plays and still being voted Most Valuable Player in the league for that year?...Did you know this once happened?...It was 1942...Joe Gordon did all those things, yet won the Most Valuable Player award that season in the American League...There's a lesson to be learned from this...It shows that even though you have faults, you can overcome them and be recognized for your good points.

How do you figure this one...Only about 10% of the U.S. population is left-handed, yet almost 30% of major league baseball players are left-handed!

Here's a golf question that may surprise you...Of all the pro golfers of all-time, which one won the most tournaments in the history of the U.S. men's pro tour?...It's not Jack Nicklaus as many would guess...Answer is Sam Snead.

New Musical System Obtained At ESJC

This fall quarter at Enterprise State Junior College, piano instructor Barbara Smith will wear her magical director's baton at a class room full of aspiring pianists.

The students will begin to play at once. But no sound, other than the tapping of keys, will be heard.

"No, this is not a fictional tale of mystery, intrigue, or horror. It is a true story of high technology.

Thanks to a $120,000 grant from Kawai America Corporation of Compton, California, the wizardry of Dr. George Shaw of the Kawai Education Foundation, and the vision of ESJC's Fine Arts Division Chairperson Dr. Richard Snyder, Enterprise State music instruction technology is the leader in Alabama.

So, how can a room full of piano students all play pianos at once and not make a lot of noise?

"In Class Piano, everyone has an electronic instrument and everyone has a headset so each student will not interfere with the others," says Snyder. "Everyone is connected to a monitor so the instructor can listen to them individually or in groups."

"With a digital piano lab, an instructor can give up to 32 lessons at one time," adds Shaw.

Snyder continues, "Another advantage to this type of arrangement is that now there are enough instruments on which students may practice outside of class and in a manner that will not disturb others."

The electronic pianos have weighted keys. According to Snyder, this provides the touch and feel of traditional pianos. Students transferring to other colleges, which do not have the benefit of this type of instrument environment, will not be at a disadvantage.

Smith, who will be teaching Class Piano, says the classroom/electronic piano/headset environment will be used for beginners and advanced music majors. "The keyboard harmony is part of the work music majors incorporated into their theory class," says Smith.

Smith is also excited about the traditional studio piano and grand piano provided by Kawai. "We now have the capability of teaching advanced piano as it is taught at the major universities with the instructor at the studio piano and the student at the grand piano," she says.

The electronic and traditional pianos have all been provided by Japanese-owned Kawai America Corporation, the second largest manufacturer of pianos in the world. They lead in sales of grand pianos with the Kawai KG II.

"Because the Japanese people place a high priority on education, a decision was made to branch into the education area with their business. The Kawai Education Foundation was formed," says Shaw, Executive Director of the Foundation.

"In addition to the instruments, we have set-up a MIDI lab - Music Instrument Digital Interface. It is a protocol that allows computers to talk to synthesizers, drum machines, and sequencers. This was all set up by Kawai through the grant.

If class piano seems like magic, what the MIDI can produce seems like science fiction. But it is real and it is happening now.

"The MIDI system allows the musician to expand his sound," says Shaw. "When we connect a synthesizer to a computer, the synthesizer can't remember what we put into it. Then we can go back and through the computer change or move the note, lengthen the note, change its volume, or change the instrument playing the note within the piece."

"This technology is new in education. Long before schools were thinking about this, the professionals were trying it all out," says Shaw. "It is being used now in television, movies, and recordings. We need to educate students with this technology so they will have the skills when they are ready to enter the market place."

Shaw was one of those professionals. That is how he became involved with the program at Kawai. He attributes a lot of it to his being where there is a digital piano lab, but not to the extent which I will leave with you. Richard and I are preparing a custom-designed program based on his specs."

ESJC President Dr. Joseph Talmadge agrees with Shaw. "I want everyone to understand what this will do for music students. We will be on the cutting edge with this type of instruction and you have to have a visionary with a concept such as this. We have this capability now because of Richard Snyder."

Not magic, but hard work, opportunities, technology, and visions combined will rise ESJC music students on the road to the 21st century. But, this fall quarter, there may just be a magical sparkle around the Enterprise State Fine Arts Building.

OTHER AREA GUARD UNITS ALSO ON HIT LIST

Elba's Guard unit in jeopardy

by Ferrin Cox

Publisher

The Elba National Guard unit with 91 members is on the list of Alabama units destined to be eliminated by the Department of Army's reduction of forces.

Also on the hit list in this area are units in New Brockton, six detachments with 18 members; Arion, with 70 members; Daleville, with 59 members; Headland, four detachments with twelve members; Troy with 50 members and Slocumb with 137 members.

The list was made public this week, however people closely associated with the National Guard were already reporting the prospects of Elba being one of those targeted.

Federal officials have said there will be no replacement units to fill any national guard army being vacated by the units on the hit list.

If Congress gives approval for this reduction, Defense Department officials have indicated they will announce a second round of cuts which would further reduce the Alabama National Guard by another 3,000 troops.

Elba has been associated with the national guard since 1922. The 14th Ammunition Train was organized in Elba on September 16, 1922. The designation was changed to the 10th Ammunition Train, Field Artillery on January 16, 1924 and again in 1932.

The unit became Battery "B" 27 117 Field Artillery on April 1, 1975. Other units of the 117th are in Dale-ville, Arion, Roanoke and Auburn. The entire 117th is on the list.

The local guard unit was called to combat duty in WW II with the first action being in Italy in December 1943. The unit was then the 933rd Field Artillery and was operating with 155mm howitzers.

The unit was again called to active duty in 1951 and served as a source for overseas replacement troops.

The first permanent home of the national guard was built in 1936 on North Claxton Avenue. Prior to that time they did their drilling on a lot across from the Methodist Church now occupied by Dale Moseley Photos, Hair Co., etc.

The unit moved from the old facility on Claxton Avenue in 1977 and occupied a new building on Larkin Road, across from the Elba Airport. They remain there now.

TWO WOMEN CONSIDER VACANT SEAT

New Brockton City Council asked to look at dark spots

by Marvin McLwain

Editor

Dark spots in the night along the city's streets was the topic of discussion in the New Brockton city council meeting.

The longest discussion in Monday night's meeting came after the council had officially adjourned.

One of the town's citizens, Luey Stuckey, complained to the council about the street lighting in front of his home. He stated that it was so dark in front of his house that he could not see what was going on.

Stuckey, who lives on John Street within a hundred yards of the police department, said that even his mailbox had been stolen. He was told that this should be reported to the postal authorities.

Councilmen, after discussing the matter with Stuckey, felt that the lighting problem could be worked out in this particular case. Several councilmen looked at the area affected by the lighting.

Also, Stuckey complained about youngsters gathering at the old city pool and park area located next to his home. He said they stay there late at night "making a lot of noise and disturbing the neighborhood." The council felt that this could be stopped.

The council meeting which was short consisted of councilmen talking to routine matters. They approved minutes, paid bills and Mayor Jim Driskell made several announcements to the council.

Driskell informed the council that the city's auditors would be conducting their routine closet audit of the city books.

Sgt. Cobb stated that this makes the second such accident involving a bicycle and a motorist in recent weeks.

Cabinet members with Governor Guy Hunt have been making the rounds across Alabama for the past week promoting changes in the state's general fund budget.

Governor Hunt cast his veto on the late night budget passed by the Alabama legislature and has called a special session for early September to consider the matter again.

Visiting in Elba last week was Alabama Emergency Management Agency Director Phillip Hicks who called for the Legislature not to leave the state without a way to receive federal government assistance in times of disaster. Hicks came to Elba with his comments, reminding the members of the media present of the 1990 disaster in Elba when flood waters hit the community. He explained that the budget passed by the Legislature last month didn't have language which would have allowed Elba to qualify for the four million in federal disaster money received by the city.

Hicks said that more than 40 million dollars in federal and state funds were spent in 1990 to repair flood damage, just through Emergency Management.

He urged members of the public to contact their state representative and state senator and urge them to support a budget that will enable his department to continue to provide vital state and local services in times of disaster.

Both Elba Mayor Fred Moore and County Commission Chairman Billy Eagerton spoke to the group, commended Emergency Management and noted the city nor the county

In Alabama, as well as across the nation, the national guard has become well known for assistance in natural disaster situations as well as being prepared for combat duty when called upon by their country.

The initial list of units to be eliminated will include forty-five units and involve over 3,000 people. The estimated cost saving will be over $270 million annually. The Elba unit is costing the government an estimated $369,900 in annual salaries.

Kinston's Rec Park Closer To Reality

Kinston's new recreation park took a giant leap toward becoming a reality Wednesday afternoon, August 14, 1991.

Sidney E. Timbie, President and CEO of Covington Industries, presented Kinston officials with a check for $1,000.00.

According to Joan Stephens, a member of Kinston's Recreation Board, the donation put the fund drive to raise matching funds for a Conservation Land Water Fund Project Grant over the top. The amount of the grant to be received from the state totals $50,000.00.

In making the presentation, Timbie said, "Kinston is our town and we care about its people."

Covington Industries, with corporate headquarters located in Oph, has manufacturing facilities in both Oph and Kinston.

In the Kinston City Council meeting last week, a resolution was passed to proceed with the matching grant application for the recreation park.

The complex, which will be located east of town on Al. Hwy. 51, will contain a youth baseball field, a softball field, three volleyball courts and a play area for tots.

Several events were held to raise the matching money with which to obtain the grant. Recently a volleyball tournament was held in Kinston, another fund raising volleyball tournament was held in Onycha, the band, Silverado, gave a concert, a bar-b-que was held, an Easter Beauty Pageant was held and a Citizens Appreciation Day was celebrated to raise funds for the park.

Hefflin Smith, a member of the recreation board, donated the land on which to construct the park.

He stated that power companies were forced to string power lines into the rural areas of the state thus applying almost everyone with electricity.

"When that power line came to our community and the juice came on at our house and mama bought an electric churn," said Hubbert, "for the first time, I knew I was a Democrat. That electric churn set me free."

He stated that he knew that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democrats had forced that change.

"The Democratic Party, cannot refuse to change," said Hubbert.

"We can't build the Democratic Party by telling the young people of Enterprise and Coffee County to look back to 1946 because they can't ing of electricity to rural areas.

Hubbert stated that today the brace is more important than the back and biceps. In years past, fields were harvested manually. Now, machines reap the fields of harvest. He contends that progress has happened because someone's brain has been developed.

He said that the Democratic Party must be on the cutting edge of pushing education and creating opportunity for the young people.

"We, the Democratic Party, must find a way to keep Alabama's young people in Alabama, if both the state and the party plans to grow," said Hubbert.

Club members were told by Hubbert that government cannot create wealth. It must use wealth created in the private sector of the free enterprise system.

"We don't do people a favor by giving them fish," said Hubbert. "We do them a favor by teaching them how to fish. There's a great difference there."

He contends that the government's social programs may need some looking into and some revisions made within them.

Hubbert concluded his up-beat presentation by telling those present that the Democratic Party needs to get the children and young folks involved in the functions of the party.

"This party of ours can go places. We've got the right stuff, we've got the right people and we've got the right attitude," said Hubbert.

The shooting of an Elba man over the weekend resulted in the arrest of a Troy youth. He has been charged with attempted murder.

According to Elba Police the incident occurred last Friday night at approximately 9:00 p.m.

Sgt. D. A. Cobb, spokesman for the Elba Police Department, stated that the 17-year-old youth was arrested after he allegedly shot Steve Dewayne Magwood, age 21, during an altercation.

Elba police officers responded to scene immediately apprehending the suspect in the shooting. He, along with five other youths, was attempting to leave the scene of the shooting.

The arrest took place without incident.

Elba Police are being assisted in their investigation of the shooting by the District Attorney's Office in Elba.
